Item 2: Throne Speech

Commissioner Maksagak: Please be seated.

Elders, Mr. Speaker, Speakers and Clerks from Chambers across Canada, Senator, Sivuliuqti, Maligaliuqtiit, and honoured guests. I am pleased to welcome you to the opening of the Third Session of the First Legislative Assembly of Nunavut.

Our government has been in existence for just over 200 days. In that time much has been accomplished: staffing has increased, government departments are now staffed at 53% of strength; Ministers have taken up their assigned portfolios and Members their roles. The transition of existing programs has been astoundingly smooth, and credit must be given for the hard work required to make this happen. The transition to government in Nunavut has been a success but there is much left to do to make this a government of and for Nunavut.

Our government has worked over the past six months to develop statements of priorities, and principles that will guide us, setting out a detailed five year action plan and looking to the future, creating a vision of Nunavut in the year 2020. Two thousand and twenty. This has not been done in isolation. It has been done with the help and inspiration of the people of the diverse Nunavut communities who have hosted this government over the past six months. The origins of the document are in the first cabinet retreat at Kimmirut in April of this year. Our mandate was still fresh and new and there was still snow on the ground, families were leaving by snowmobile for spring hunting on the sea ice during the three sunny days that Cabinet spent in Kimmirut.

The resulting document was shared with the MLA's here in Iqaluit and the issue of priorities was discussed at length by all members at the Full Caucus Retreat in Baker Lake. The retreat took place in a warm week in June. It was so sunny and hot that the children of Baker Lake were down swimming in the strip of open water between the sand and the flow edge. The hospitality of the people of Baker Lake was also warm. Members held their sessions outside on a high point of land on the road to Prince River. The sun and wind were strong and the land was showing its colours but still without insects. People from the community stopped by with dry meat and kettles of tea.

After Baker Lake a revised document was circulated to Members and their comments received an intensive review by Cabinet in August at Bathurst Inlet.

This document has been given the name the "Bathurst Mandate" with thanks for the support and inspiration received from this small, fiercely independent community in the central arctic. During the four days of the cabinet retreat the colours of the land were beginning to turn, the char were running and the berries were waiting to be picked. It was a perfect location to look to Nunavut's future. The community's spirit of independence and the beauty of the land there guided the decisions made.

The final drafts of the Mandate were reviewed with many of our partners in government, including the Nunavut Association of Municipalities, Nunavut Tunngavik Inc. and other representative groups.

This Bathurst Mandate has truly been developed in the spirit of consensus. It is a demonstration of the unity of spirit in Nunavut, that so many elements could be drawn together in a comprehensive and realistic statement of goals and dreams.

The vision the document presents of Nunavut is based on four main premises: inuuqatigiittiarniq – the healthy inter-connection of mind, body and spirit; pijarnirniqaqsat katujjiqatigiinnirlu – simplicity and unity; namminiq makitajunnarniq – self-reliance; and, ilippallianguinnarniq – continuing learning.

Inuuqatigiittiarniq

Our government believes that the health of Nunavut depends on the health of its physical, social, economic and cultural communities and the ability of those communities to serve Nunavummiut in the spirit of Inuuqatigiittiarniq – the healthy inter-connection of mind, body, spirit and environment.

In our government, people will always come first. Our government's vision is that in the year 2 thousand 20, Nunavut will be a place where self assured, caring communities will respond to the needs of individuals and families. Nunavut will be a place where we respect the accumulated wisdom of our elders, examining and evaluating our actions based on the best of both modern knowledge and traditional ways.

Our government is committed to provide opportunities for individuals, families and communities to build upon their strengths. Over the coming months our government will open a public dialogue on housing issues at the same time as developing practical steps to address the need for social housing. In consultation with the Members of this Assembly, a Housing Task Force has been established to advise the Minister responsible on the development and implementation of immediate and long term plans to respond to the housing needs of Nunavummiut. Housing is one of our government's two major priorities.

Our government will also work with communities to create a Capacity Plan to build administrative strength and diversity in each community; Wellness Plans to develop and maintain our support network for individuals and families, and a community-based Economic Strategy for Nunavut. To do this we are committed to supporting Nunavummiut in each age group to participate in community life and in the development of Nunavut.

Pijarnirniqsat Katujjiqatigiinnirlu

Our government believes that simplicity in the processes of government encourages access, makes tasks more focused and more achievable and invites participation by all Nunavummiut. Our government will be looking to all Members in this Assembly to help ensure that the actions of all government departments and agencies meet our commitment to simplicity and unity.

Our government has established Maligarnit Qimirrujiit, a Nunavut Law Review Commission. We are looking for assistance from Members of this Assembly to help identify people in their communities who may be interested in serving as Commissioners in this important endeavour. Our government is committed to making the received laws of Nunavut reflect the values of Nunavummiut. With the advice and counsel of our Elders and communities we will achieve this goal during our government's mandate.

Our government will continue to demonstrate and act upon the commitment to the full implementation of the Nunavut Land Claim Agreement, acknowledging the origins of Nunavut through Article 4 of that agreement. The government and Nunavut Tunngavik Incorporated each recognize that it will be beneficial to all residents for the government and NTI to pursue healthy and constructive working relations and our government plans to table for you a political accord setting out the practical elements of that commitment.

Our government is also committed to working with the Nunavut business community to simplify and enhance access to business development and support programs and to build local employment.

By working together with all our Nunavut partners, our government is confident that over the coming years Nunavummiut will take up an increasing number of economic opportunities and steadily reduce levels of dependency on government.

Namminiq Makitajunnarniq

Our government believes that as individuals we are responsible for our own lives, and through our own efforts and activities we can provide for the needs of our families and communities. As communities, and as a government, we are connected to and reliant on each other, to care for those in need, to establish common goals and to secure the resources required to achieve those goals. This is namminiq makitajunnarniq – self-reliance.

To build options and opportunities for Nunavummiut within our communities, our government will revise our income support program, putting in place incentives for individuals and families to achieve self-reliance. We will fulfil our commitment to deliver jobs to decentralized communities. And, we will build local employment and support local businesses and organizations while promoting effective competition.

Ilippallianguinnarniq

To achieve the dreams of Nunavut, we all need to listen closely and learn well in order to acquire the skills we need to increase our independence and prosperity. Ilippallianguinnarniq – continuous learning, is the second of this governments' major priorities.

Our government believes that respect for individuals is the basis of effective learning. It commits to put strategies into place to develop Nunavummiut in every profession as part of a resident work force and to view every element of the government budget as a potential training budget.

Financial Decisions

It is important that the financial decisions to be made for Nunavut are also arrived at in this same spirit of consensus. To gain from the knowledge of our people, the Government will consult with MLA's, community leaders, and the people of Nunavut in identifying budget priorities. During the month of November teams of MLA's and Ministers will visit communities to hold pre-budget consultations. These public meetings will give people an opportunity to learn about Nunavut's finances and give the government valuable input as the budget is developed.

A Vision For Nunavut

Elders, ladies and gentlemen, and honoured guests, our vision of Nunavut is far reaching but it is also achievable. I am confident of this because we all know that 20 years ago, Nunavut itself was a dream which some called impossible. Commitment, hard work and an unrelenting focus on our goals have brought us here today, sitting in the new Legislative Assembly building for Nunavut, planning for our own future.

As you look around you today at this beautiful new building, which incorporates so many symbols of Nunavut and our life here, as you look at the members whose workplace it will be, and at the people of Nunavut who have made so much possible, I am asking you to join in committing to a new dream, a dream this Assembly will build into a reality over the next 20 years.

The full text of the Bathurst Mandate, which I have highlighted some aspects of, will be tabled by the Premier during this legislative session.

The Departmental plans and initiatives which flow from that document will be brought forward by my Ministers during this session for the review of this House and its Committees. Initiatives which have already commenced to respond to the terms of the Mandate will be brought to this House by way of Ministerial Statement.

During this Session our government will be introducing a Supplementary Appropriations Act and the Loan Authorization Act. As well, there are three Bills to amend: the Workers' Compensation Act, the Legal Services Board Act, and the Interpretation Act. The supplementary budget and these amendments to legislation the Nunavut government inherited from GNWT will begin to deal with the administrative changes required for our body of legislation. I recommend timely passage of each of the Bills being brought before this Assembly.

I now declare open the third session of the First Nunavut Legislative Assembly.

With that I would like to invite you to join myself, and the Speaker and Members of this Assembly in the foyer for refreshments before the resumption of the Order paper.

Qujannamiik.

>> Applause

>> Short Recess
